War News.

NO LATE NEWS FROM LADYSMITH.

British Reinforcements Arriving at the Cape Seige Guns for South Africa.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10th.

London: The British transport Rosyln Castle, with Gen. Hilliard and staff, and the Yorkshire regiment aboard has arrived at Cape Town. Four other transports which sailed from England the same day are expected to arive daily. The Rosyln Castle was immediately ordered to proceed to Durban.

Scanty and conflicting news from the seat of war, and the fact that Gen. White has not yet said a word about the alleged fighting around Ladysmith are again producing a feeling of uneasiness. It may be that Gen. White has sent news, and that Gen. Buller has thought best to keep it to himself. Indeed this is the version that is beginning to be believed as it is believed that the news of heavy fighting brought by Kaffirs in such circumstantial detail cannot be wholly groundless.

General Buller's forces will soon arrive at Durban and will probably begin to advance to the relief of Ladysmith about Nov. 15th. The Boers, if they ever entertained the idea of the invasion of Cape Town, have probably now abandoned it, and will devote their whole energies to reducing Lodysmith. They have only about a week in which to do this. The fact that they are rather inactive indicates that they are waiting for something which they feel sure will justify their delay. Latest Estcourt despatches seem to hint that the garrison is about to retire further southwards.

Orders have been received at Woolwich and Devonport for the mobilization of the seige train, which is supposed to be intended for the purpose of shelling Pretoria. The force manning it will approximate a strength of eight batteries and will consist of 32 officers and 1,104 non-commissioned officers and men. Its armanent will be thirty howitzers, fourteen six inch guns, eight five inch guns and eight four inch guns. The whole train weighing over three thousand tons.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 7th, '99.

Reported that the Boers lost 800 killed, wounded and captured in Thursday's battle on Latham's farm.

A reliable messenger just arrived from Ladysmith, passing through Boer lines during the night, reports that heavy fighting occurred Thursday around Ladysmith. The hottest engagement was on George Latham's farm on the Orange Free State side. The British drove Boers back to camp, the latter suffering great loss. Thirty mounted Boers were captured. Fighting was resumed on Friday, the Boers firing from the hill near Hepworth's farm. Again they were driven back with loss.

Colenso is now in the hands of the Boers. Before evacuation was decided upon the enemy decided to cut all outposts. The Durban light infantry under Lieut. Molyneux and a force of Dublin Fusiliers were sent to the relief of outposts and a fight ensued. The Boers were repulsed leaving 12 dead. Twenty Boer horses were killed. The chief motive of withdrawal, however, was that the long range guns of the Boers had made the British position untenable. No orders were received for retirement. While retirement was in progress the Natal volunteers at Fort Wylie had great difficulty in getting away their nine pounders in the dark, but finally succeeded.

The Boers shelled Colenso camp to-day being apparently unaware of the evacaution. Afterwards they looted the stores but did not harm bridges, saying they would want the railway for themselves.

London: The British engaged the Boers successfully on Thursday and Friday. The cavalry cut through the Boer ranks and the Naval brigade silenced Boer big guns on Hepworth hill. Afterwards the Gordon Highlanders carried the Boer position on the hill at point of the bayonet and with cavalry did considerable execution among Boers, some of whom surrendered.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 8.

A reliable native has brought in a confimationr of Friday's fight, south of Ladysmith. A reconnaissance in force was made by a British division, the object being to relieve the Colenso column which had been attacked by the Boers. The British infantry charged the Boers who were strongly posted on Globerkloof hill and drove them down on the plain towards Tugela river, when the British cavalry, executing a fine flank movement, charged the Boers, almost annihilating them. The plain was strewn with slain Boers, and it is estimated that two thousand were killed, wounded or captured.

The fight is supposed to have occurred on Saturday, as no firing was heard since.

An armored train has left for Colenso with a company of Dublin Fusiliers and a railroad engineering staff to repair the line.

British government has decided to mobilize practically the whole British army.

Winnipeg, Nov. 9th, '99.

A strong force from Durban has re-occupied Colenso, and is now on the march to join hands with Gen. White and relieve Ladysmith. The corps consists of 3,500 men, mounted infantry and artillery.

No transports have yet reached Cape Town, but they may have been intercepted by despatch boats, and ordered on to Durban. Fully 4,500 men are expected today.

Friday's and Saturday's severe engagements have evidentiy quieted the Boers. Joubert is withdrawing from Ladysmith leaving only outposts.

The Boers are making a concentrated effort to capture Kimberley and Cecil Rhodes, and the situation there is grave. Heavy guns with German artillerymen have left Pretoria for the south.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, NOV. 10TH, 1899

THE WAR.

The most bloodthirsty reader of war news cannot complain about the delay of either side in forcing the fighting in the present war. The battle of Glencoe was fought on Oct. 20th, Elandslaagte on the 21st, Reitfontein on the 24th, McFarquhar's farm on the 30th, Latham's farm on Nov. 2nd Hepworth's hill on Nov. 3rd. These were all important actions involving heavy losses on both sides; but the intervals between were not intermissions in the work of killing, they were only lulls, in which the losses were counted by tens intstead of hundreds. This is in only one field of operations—Natal. Since the 15th continuous fighting has been going on at Mafeking, and intermittant fighting and killing in Rhodesia and at Kimberley as well. So far the British must have lost fully 2,500 men in killed, wounded and captured; and although the Boer losses are not definitely known, and most likely have been exaggerated by British reports, they are admitted to be large. As the result of the first two battles the British had taken nearly 900 prisoners, a fair indication that the Boers had lost as heavily as themselves. The heavy total losses have been accentuated by the loss in leading officers on both sides. The British have lost Gen. Symons, second in command in Natal; Lieut. Egerton, of the naval artillery, and very many lesser officers of note. The Boers have lost Gen. Kock, their second in command in Natal, Gen. Schiel, their chief of artillery, Gen. Viljoen, Gen. Botha, and many other lesser leaders. So far the gait has been fairly even, but the pace is too swift to last. It is already clear that the result is merely a matter of which side can stand the pace the longest. As to which side that is no one, even the Boers themselves, can now have any doubt.

The fact is now apparent that the Boers went into the war under a number of very serious misapprehensions. Amongst these were: That the British would not fight. That the British could not fight them. That if the British did fight they could destroy them without serious loss to themselves. That the Boers of Cape Colony and Natal would rebel and assist them. That a combination of European powers would interfere on their behalf. So far as the game has got it would appear that they have been mistaken on all these points. When the magnitude of their mistake dawns upon them the confidence which urged them on to extreme effort at the beginning of the struggle may fail them. If they cannot capture Ladysmith before reinforcements arrive their finish is in near sight. If they do capture Ladysmith it will only be deferred a few months, for their losses in the attack will more than counterbalance the prestige of victory.

While the Boers are acquiring valuable knowledge that they are not the whole push in this little world, the British public and the British army are also in the way of learning some very valuable and much needed lessons. The fact that less than a quarter of a million people have dared to challenge the British empire to battle, and that in the battle the empire has suffered reverses which have caused it to shiver from centre to circumference must shake the complacence of the most self-confident jingo, and give food for earnest thought to people of ostrich disposition who think the empire is so firmly established that nothing can shake it. The attitude of the European nations also shows clearly that the nation which prides itself on its truth and righteousness is still "perfidious Albion" to them, and hated to the last extremity. No matter who the enemy, or what his cause, so long as he is against Britain. It is well that the war occurred, and that British reverses have been suffered, so that the British nation as one man should see where they stand; and should see that if British liberty and British civilization are worth preserving they must be preserved by the same means by which they were established—the willing and unlimited sacrifice of money and blood. We can see in the actions of the Boers towards the Outlanders, and in the frowning faces of Russia, of France, of Germany and of Austria, as in a mirror, the result to the humblest subject, and the most distant colony of Britain, as well as to hated England, should British military glory fade or British military prestige be destroyed.

Thank God, although British reverses have been suffered, and more may yet be suffered in this war, there is no danger of loss of prestage. The loss of prestige is not in being beaten, but in staying beaten. So far as this war has gone British troops have not been beaten. It is true that a small and a large detachment have been surrounded and overwhelmed, but in fair field—and on the enemy's own ground—they have more than maintained their reputation as against a hitherto invincible foe. Against the crack riflemen of the world, against artillery of the latest pattern, directed by officers from the best European armies, against heavy odds of numbers, they have captured position after position from the Boers. But at a terrible sacrifice of their own lives. The British are strong in their handling of artillery, and in infantry at close quarters, but in rifle firing in skirmishing the Boers have all the advantage. The rifle of to-day is the deadliest of all weapons if properly handled. The need of better ability to handle the rifle has been impressed most strongly on the British in every battle of this war. The superior ability of the Boers as riflemen accounts largely for the heavy losses of the British. Could the British handle their rifles as well as they handle their artillery, or as the Boers handle their rifles, much of their loss of life would have been saved.

The great losses of the British have occurred in this as in the previous Boer war in underrating the resource and determination of the enemy. At Glencoe the British Hussars and Fusilier detachment found that Boers in retreat were just as dangerous as at any other time. They do not lose their heads, are not subject to panic, and cannot be chased by small numbers. The disaster to Carlton's column on Oct. 30th was the result of treachery taking advantage of lack of suspicion in causing the mule stampede, followed up by bull-headedness in attempting to carry out orders whose successful execution had been rendered impossible by the loss of the ammunition, against such a foe as the Boers. Had the enemy been of a less determined or calculating nature such a bluff might have worked. But the Boers knew that the column had no reserve ammunition, and therefore could not hold out long if pressed with rifle fire. However, the war is not over and such a mistake is not likely to occur again. An Englishman is slow to learn, but once he does learn, he knows, and takes no chances.

The lessons of this war, written as they have been in the best blood of the empire, will have their natural and proper effect upon both the British army and people. The people will understand their supreme interest in the army and its efficiency, and the army will have learned in what points present efficiency must be improved. The latest killing appliances are in use in this war. Their introduction necessitates changes in methods of fighting. This is a valuable rehersal for the great European tragedy, which any day may be put upon the stage.

There is no doubt that when this war is over the British army will be even a better fighting machine than it is to-day, and the British nation will be better able to maintain their present proud position in the world than they ever were before.

WEATHER SIGNS.

On Monday morning the wind had a tinge of cold not felt before this season. The sky was mostly clear, but on the whole the indications were uncertain. An old timer in the country was asked what he thought the weather would, be. "Fine" he said, "fine," and likely to continue for some time. Questioned as to why he thought so favorably of the weather prospects he gave the following: Wind from the south east; An upright new moon; Partridges drumming in the woods. This latter is unusual in the fall, and when it occurs is held by the Indians to be a sure indication of a long open season. The BULLETIN does not put up to be a weather prophet. The best that it can do is to keep track of the weather as it occurs. The above is given not to be acted upon, but to be verified or disproved by general observation.

The Prince Albert Advocate estimates that the heavy rains of last season caused floods which destroyed $75,000 worth of Northwest government public works.

Present: The Mayor and councillors McLeod, McKenzie, Picard, Brown and Secord.

Tenders for debentures were opened. The debentures were for $2,725 running 20 years, payment connected with the Raymer corner, and $685 to run 10 years, payment for mill site. The tenders were as follows:

Wood & Son, Toronto,	3,621
G. A. Stimson,	3,411
Drummond & Co. Kingston,	3,575

The tender of Wood & Son was accepted.

Letters from Short & Cross, D. Ross and J. A. McDougall regarding damage from closing streets on H. B. reserve were referred to the special committee on that subject consisting of the Mayor, and councillors McLeod and McKenzie.

Mrs. Hetu was notified that no alteration could be made at present in her assessment but that if her taxes are paid in the usual manner, and she applies for a refund it will be granted, the amount to be determined by the town solicitor.

Short & Cross were informed that the offer for the erection of a foundry and machine shop was still open.

Petitions for street lights at the corner of Elizabeth street, and at the corner of Victoria Avenue and Fourth street were referred to the Fire water and light committee.

The chairman of the license committee reported with regard to the complaint of Jos. Brunelle, while acting as constable, against P. D. Campbell, that as no charge was laid against the party arrested his discharge was justified. Picard and McLeod moved the adoption of the report.

The names of F. A. Frings, S. Clouthier and L. Lessard were added to the voters' list.

Owners of property on Ross' grade and at the foot of the hill were notified that where open wells and air shafts exist they must at once fill up the same or provide proper covering.

WAR NEWS BY MAIL.

The papers of Monday's mail bring more complete accounts of the fighting on Monday, Oct. 30th, around Ladysmith. This was the heaviest battle of the war, and will always be memorable as the occasion of the capture of Col. Carlton's column by the Boers. It was the first serious fighting around Ladysmith. Since then fighting there has been practically continuous. It would appear to be the British policy in this war not to await attack. Accordingly when it became clear that the Boers were preparing themselves to make an attack Gen. White moved practically his whole force out against them. The battle is known as that of McFarquhar's farm. As far as can be gleaned from the despatches the result was practically a draw as far as the centre and right wings of the British force was concerned, but the left wing suffered absolute disaster, being compelled to surrender after suffering heavy loss. The list of casualties is given as 57 killed, 227 wounded and 873 missing. It is probable that the list of killed and wounded does not include the casualties to Carlton's column. These are probably included in the 873 missing. A report states that Carlton's column lost 60 killed and 240 wounded. The lost column comprised the 10th mountain battery, four half companies of the Gloucester regiment and six companies of the Royal Irish Fusiliers. They started at 11 p.m. on the 29th to turn the enemy's right flank. When near the point they were expected to reach Gen White says in his report "Two boulders rolled from the hill, and a few rifle shots stampeded the infantry ammunition mules. The stampede spread to the battery mules which got away with practically the whole gun equipment and a great portion of the regimental small arms ammunition. The reserves were similarly lost." The attack on this column opened at 9 a. m. At 3 p. m. the ammunition was exhausted and the survivors surrendered. It would appear that once the main action had commenced Gen. White's hands were too full to send aid to the lost column. Indeed the arrival of a reinforcement from the Powerful, which rapidly got into action, was badly needed. A stampede of the ammunition mules of the right wing took place and nearly caused disaster in that part of the field. There is very little doubt that the mule stampedes were the result of treachery.

Apparently the successful attack of Gen. French on the Free State camp at Bester's hill on Thursday was the next active move of the British, the meantime having been occupied with heavy gun fire. On Friday according to Tuesday's despatches Hepworth's hill was taken by the British.

From the fact that Gen. Joubert has sent a protest against the use of lyddite shells by the British it would seem that the Boers have not been getting the best of it in artillery practice.

Gen. Kock, who was captured at Elandslaagte, died of his wounds at Ladysmith.

Reports from Kimberley and rumors from Mafeking would indicate that the seige of Mafeking had been weakened in order that the attack on Kimberley might be strengthened. Kimberley was safe on Nov. 1st.

No news of importance has been received from Rhodesia.

The British are forming a military base at DeAar junction about 75 miles south of the Orange river on the railway to Kimberley and about 160 miles south of that place. Over 2,000 men are there now. No doubt this base will be used either for the relief of Kimberley or the attack on Bloemfontein.

LAKE TAGISH.

Inspector Routledge, N. W. M. P., arrived here from Maple Creek on the 19th inst. A sad disaster, the first this season, occurred at White Horse rapids on the 16th inst. in which two men lost their lives in attempting to run the rapids with scows without a proper pilot. Winter weather here; the large steam boats are making their last trip this week owing to the ice forming on the upper lakes.

OLD STYLE STOVE.

GRAND JEWEL STOVES SAVE A THIRD IN FUEL.

In the old-style stove the oven bottom extends to front of stove, so that heat cannot circulate around front of oven at all, so it takes a third more fuel to heat front of oven for baking.

In the New Grand Jewel the oven turns up to the fire box, 3 in. from front of stove (Milne's Pat. See Cut), forming a perfect flue around the oven, heating it uniformly, making a perfect baker, and saving 33⅓ per ct. in wood or coal. The Grand Jewel is made in four sizes, fully guaranteed by the makers. If you don't like it, after a fair trial, you get your money back. The third size, 9-23, is best adapted for farm use.

T. ROSS, formerly druggist of Edmonton and now representing a Hamilton drug firm, returned south on Thursday.

MR. MARTIN, recently teacher in Milton school district near Lacombe, has been engaged as teacher at Poplar lake.

THE annual ball of the Strathcona agricultural society, which was to have taken place in Ross' Hall in that town, on Nov. 14th, has been postponed to the 30th.

REV. FATHER LEDUC has suffered from several sudden and severe attacks of illness lately which on recurrance may at any time prove fatal. He is still able to attend to his clerical duties.

JAS. MCDONALD has been awarded the contract for the sidewalk on Main street from the Hudson's Bay Co's store west two blocks. Work is now under way.

A social, under the auspices of the ladies aid society of the Presbyterian church, will be held at the residence of Mrs. W. S. Robertson on Tuesday evening, the 14th inst. A good programme will be provided and refreshments will be served. Admission 25c. All are welcome.

LUKE KELLY, of St. Albert road, died this morning after an illness of some two weeks. Mr. Kelly was one of the pioneers of Edmonton, having come here in 1880. He leaves five young orphan children, Mrs. Kelly having died about a year ago. Mr. Kelly had prospered in Edmonton and his children are well provided for. The funeral will leave the late residence of deceased on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock for the St. Albert cemetery.

A SMOULDERING fire was discovered in the cellar of McDougall & Secord's old store about Tuesday noon. A large number of coils of rope had been stored in the cellar and it was discovered that one of these had caught fire, probably from a match which had dropped through a crack. Beyond the charring of one of the coils no damage was done.

A SMALL building in rear of P. Wagner's tailor shop, formerly used by J. D. Clarke as an ice house, was discovered to be on fire about 12 o'clock last night. The fire was first noticed by Const. Pattison while on his rounds. In a very few minutes after the alarm the chemical engine was brought to the scene and the hose laid for the steamer in case the conflagration should spread. The building being somewhat water soaked did not burn readily and the chemical with the assistance of an impromptu bucket brigade, had the flames under control and out in less than five minutes after the first alarm. The damage was nil, as the building was practically worthless.

THE close approach of the Army's Self-Denial week announced in our columns a few days ago is already in evidence. Every salvationist is putting into practical effect the plans made for the success of the effort. The current issue of the War Cry and the special appeals already scattered far and near give a good idea of the high hopes they entertain towards the raising of a total exceeding that of any previous year. Many of the salvationists have pledged themselves to live on bread and water, and to the denial of what must come out of their slender resources for the sake of Self-Denial week, the aims of which it is intended to fufil.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of the Edmonton St. Andrew' society was held in the Fire hall last evening. The following officers were elected:

President, G. J. Kinnaird; 1st vice, W. S. Edmiston; 2nd vice, Dr. W. M. McKay; Secy.-treasurer, T. Hourston; committee, C. de W. MacDonald, K. W. McKenzie, T. G. Lauder, W. J. Walker, Wm. McKay; Chaplain, Rev. D. G. McQueen; Standard bearer, K. A. McLeod; Bard, C. de W. McDonald; Piper, D. Watson.

It was decided to celebrate St. Andrew's day (Nov. 30th) as usual with a supper, all arrangements for which are left in the hands of the officers and committee. Announcement will be made in due course.

THE CALGARY TRAGEDY.

The Calgary Herald of Monday has a full account of the shooting of George Gouin on Saturday last, Nov. 4th. The shooting was done by E. A. Harris, Gouin's partner in a produce business. Harris and his wife roomed in the Thomson block, as also did Gouin, who was unmarried. On Saturday afternoon Harris went to a pigeon shoot. Mrs. Harris went out calling. Returning about 4 o'clock Harris enquired for his wife at several places where he expected her to call. Not finding her he went to their rooms in the Thomson block. He forcibly entered Gouin's apartments and is said to have found Mrs. Harris there. Apparently he attacked Gouin. During the struggle Harris had one of his fingers broken and another bitten. Dr. Ings, who occupies offices in the same building, was alarmed by Mrs. Harris, and on entering Gouin's apartments found Harris and Gouin struggling on the floor, the latter shot, and the former having a revolver in his hand. Dr. Ings pulled Harris away from Gouin and took the revolver from him. He then attended to Gouin, who was suffering severely from his wound, and had him taken to the Holy Cross hospital. Harris, whose horse and buggy was standing in the street, drove south along the MacLeod trail to Midnapore, nine miles. There he left the horse and rig and returned by train to Calgary. He spent the night at Senator Lougheed's residence and on Sunday morning he gave himself up to the police. Harris was released on $4,000 bail. Gouin is in a very dangerous condition. The bullet entered his abdomen perforating the intestines several times, and lodged near the spine. Gouin has resided in Calgary for many years and is well known throughout Alberta.

Harris is the son of C. P. Harris, a capitalist of Moncton, N. B., and Mrs. Harris is a daughter of John Archibald, of Moncton, at one time chief engineer of the Intercolonial railway.

BAZAAR.

The bazaar in aid of the building fund of St. Joachim's church, which was held in Robertson Hall on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons and evenings, although unfortunate as to weather, has been very successful financially. The hall was handsomely draped with streamers. The stage was occupied by the refreshment table, while the body of the hall was occupied by tables at which artistic needlework, laces, and fancy work generally and all et cetras which constitute a bazaar were disposed of at ruinous prices.

The bazaar was under the management of the following ladies' committee: President, Mrs. Geo. Roy; 1st vice-president, Mrs. John Kelly; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Duplessis; secretary, Mrs. Larue; treasurer, Mrs. Gariepy. The forces were divided as follows:

Fancy table—Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Prince, Miss Voyer

Lottery table—Mrs. Gallagher. Mrs. Silver.

Candies and toys—Miss Gariepy, Miss M. Gariepy and Miss Paquette.

Refreshment table—Mrs. Huot, Miss McAllister, Miss Charbonneau and Miss Pigeon.

Ice cream—Mrs. St. Jean.

Fish pond—Miss De Cazes, Mrs. Larue.

Besides there were a number of skirmishers. In the cane contest Mrs. White and the Misses McCallum were canvassing for Mr. Hourston, and Mrs. Berube and Miss Blanche Duplessis for Mr. Gibbons. Mrs. Bilodeau, Misses Emma Degagne, Annette Le Chambre and Mary Gallagher and Masters Harry Woodhouse and Albert Kelly were very energetic in placing the advantages of investment in their several schemes before the numerous visitors.

Each evening the proceedings were enlivened at intervals by music and singing. The ladies and gentlemen assisting were; Mrs. St. Jean, who sang and played, Miss Clara Lauder who sang, Dr. Roy and A. J. H. McCauley who played, and Messrs. Biladeau and Whiteley who sang very acceptably.

The bazaar closed at 11 p. m. last night, nearly all the saleable articles having been disposed of. The cane contest resulted in 964 votes for Houston and 650 for Gibbons. T. O'Shaughnessy won a splendid silver tray and E Duplessis won a fine meerschaum pipe.

The water pitcher presented by Mrs. Cowie and raffled on Tuesday night was won by A. C. Hebert, of St. Albert and realized $100.

Altogether the ladies are very well satisfied with the result of the bazaar. Mrs. Silver wishes to specially thank the friends who contributed articles for her lottery table.

SUPREME COURT JUDGMENT.

Soucy et al. vs. Ball et al. This was an action brought by a large number of ratepayers of the Splan public school district, No. 475, on behalf of themselves and all other ratepayers except those who were made defendants, against William Ball and Samuel W. Splan two of the trustees and the board of school trustees.

The plaintiffs obtained an interim injunction restraining the trustees from paying to the defendant Ball the sum of $20 voted to him as assessor and secretary, or enforcing the assessment they had made, and the defendant Ball from acting as trustee. The defendant moved to set aside the injunction when the whole case was argued and judgment reserved.

Mr. Justice Rouleau has now given judgment (1) that the defendant Splan be restrained from acting as a school trustee, as his term of office expired by due course of law on the 31st December last. (2) That all resolutions and other orders of the trustees relating to the assessment be, and the assessment itself, be set aside. (3) That the resolution for the payment of $20 to the defendant Ball is void, and the trustees be restrained from any action thereon. (4) That a mandamus issue commanding the trustees to declare the defendant Ball's seat vacant. (4) That the trustees pay the plaintiff's costs.

N. D. Beck, Q. C., for the plaintiffs, C. de W. MacDonald, for the defendants.

NEW SETTLERS.

The following settlers arrived on Saturday's train :

J. Trombley, wife and family, Napoleon Andrau, wife and family, Quebec ; Peter Robinson, wife and eight children, from South Dakota; Miss Violet Skidmore, Miss Lavina Skidmore, Mrs. G. H. Hayes, South Dakota.

Four families of Bohemians left the train at Wetaskiwin.

Four families of Americans with four cars of settlers effects got off at Ponoka. A delegation from Gretna, Man., consisting of Claus Peters, Jacob Wiens, Jacob Ens and Johan Buhler also disembarked there for the purpose of looking over the country to find a location for a number of their countrymen who are coming out from Russia.

SETTLERS ON THE C. & E.

C. W. Sutter, immigration agent, has made the following estimate of the number of settlers who have located this season at the following towns along the C. & E.

Didsbury,	200
Olds.	150
Innisfail,	75
Red Deer,	100
Lacombe,	300
Ponoka,	119
Wetaskiwin,	150
Leduc,	400
	1,494

The settlers arriving at Didsbury are principally Ontario German Mennonites.

In addition to the above a large number of people have bought land and will return in the spring to settle. In the Lacombe district alone 250 homesteads have been taken up this year, and if all those entering return and locate it will represent 1,200 or 1,500 people.
